

Technical Program Manager

Ansen Corporation, a growing electronics contract manufacturer headquartered in Ogdensburg, New York is accepting applications for the position of Technical Program Manager. The Program Manager ensures accurate collection, application and management of all technical data to support manufacturing and contract obligations and deliverables. It requires extensive management of customer interface, especially in relation to engineering issues with implications for internal production, engineering, QA and outside sales. Minimum of BS in Engineering or Technology-related degree, or equivalent experience required, as well as ability to comprehend manufacturing/engineering processes, knowledge of multiple technologies/processes and their interdependencies. Ability to support work using our ERP system-Visual and other PC applications is required, as is a proven history of customer relationship management.

We offer a competitive salary and comprehensive benefit package featuring Medical, Dental, Prescription, 401K, Long Term Disability and Paid Time Off package. Please send resume, letter of interest and salary requirements to HR Director at ansenhr@ansencorp.com